Peoples Bank – October 3, 2018

Peoples Bank has created a philanthropic culture within their organization dedicated to serving their local community. Since 2014, Peoples Bank has played an integral role in Lincoln's successful Lemonade Day project. They have also helped in promoting 21st century skills by assisting our third through fifth grade students learn about careers related to banking during Lincoln's annual Career Day Fair.

Having professionals from a local business come into the school to educate and teach our students about how to own and run a business has had a positive and long-lasting influence on the success of this program. Although they have made a significant financial contribution by providing loans for students in order to start their lemonade day business and by paying the costs for our t-shirts each year, Peoples Bank is not just interested in supporting Lincoln financially. They have also invested many "man hours" by volunteering to work directly with students, providing economic lessons, as well as sitting on the Lincoln Lemonade Day Loan Board, listening to and approving loans. All of time and energy provided to Lincoln on behalf of Peoples Bank has contributed to a successful "real world" connection that will only enhance the idea of creating lifelong learners. Thank you, Peoples Bank for truly being a "friend of education".
